ALL DRUGGISTS

The Onlooker

by WILBUR D. NESBIT

Her Plait

I cannot wear the old things I wore a year ago. Though they are just as good as new And once became me so. I have not changed the least bit Nor grown in any way. But if I wore a last year's style What would my friends all say?

I cannot wear the old dress That was so swell last fall. It is not worn the slightest bit But will not do at all. Why, if I walked down street in it I could not then endure The knowledge that all of our friends Would say we had grown poor.

I cannot wear the old hat I put away last spring. Although it shows no signs of wear And is a lovely thing. It breaks my heart to think of all The costly stuff it bears But it is not at all the shape That everybody wears.

I cannot wear the old coat. Nor wear my last year's furs— And though I sadly cast them off My heart with rapture stirs. I've got to buy expensive things— And women's clothes are dear— I think, though, I'll have twice as much To bid good-bye next year.

FALL HINTS FOR MEN.

Trousers are made with permanent cuffs. The cuffs are sewed right onto the bottom of the legs. Small change may be readily concealed in the cuffs.

The tailors still put five or six pockets in coats, and then when the garment loses its shape blame you for carrying so much in the pockets.

For men whose adam's apples rise and fall when they speak, sing or swallow, collars with spring wings are offered. The wings accommodate themselves to the motion of the adam's apple.

Fuzzy hats are again popular. The fuzzy hat should be shampooed once a week and given a hair trim every fortnight. Some men have a fad of pompadouring the fur on the hat, others wear them curly. It is announced that switches will soon be introduced for hats that are becoming bald.

The lower price for furs indicates that the Uncle Tom's Cabin overcoat will have more of a vogue than ever this season.

TOO GREAT A STRAIN.

"Where's the eggs?" "What eggs, ma?" "The eggs I sent you for. Didn't I tell you to get a dozen and not to forget to hurry back?" "Well, ma, I tried so hard to remember to hurry back that I forgot the eggs."

Economical Damsel. He begged for a lock of her hair. He vowed he would cherish the strand. He asked but this boon of his fair, And held out a tremulous hand.

"Ah, no," she replied, "your request is more than I feel I can grant. It may just as well be confessed My hair costs so much that I can't."

A Tip for Father. "Yes Willie," said the affable uncle, "the rainbow means that there will not be any more rain." "Is that true?" asked Willie. "I must run home and tell papa. I heard him say he intended to invest in an umbrella factory."

Hadn't Noticed It. "Had you noticed, Miss Plopp that you hadn't noticed me several times lately when we met?" "No, I simply haven't noticed you."
